Figure 1 is a schematic representation of the experimental design. It shows a sequence of events: a subject enters a room, a door closes, a light is turned on, and a subject is seated at a table. A computer monitor displays a stimulus, and a subject responds. The sequence is repeated for multiple trials.

Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all cases. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all cases. The number of correct responses was significantly higher than the number of incorrect responses in all cases.
